Brooker Memorial

Preparing Children for Lifelong Success

The Maria Seymour Brooker Memorial, Inc.

From the Executive Director

Dear Friends,

At Brooker Memorial, we believe every child deserves the opportunity to thrive. Through education, health services, family support, and programs of excellence, we work to prepare children for lifelong success. This past year, we strengthened that mission by expanding access, removing barriers, and creating new opportunities for children and families across Northwest Connecticut.

A strong foundation for lifelong learning continued to grow in our Early Learning and Child Care Center, where children experience a nurturing environment that fosters curiosity, confidence, and the social, emotional, and academic skills needed for future success. Every day, our dedicated educators provide compassionate care and engaging learning experiences that give children the strongest possible start in life.

Access to oral health care expanded through our Pediatric Dental Center with the addition of a new school-based clinic at Head Start, sedation dentistry services, translation support, and transportation assistance. We also expanded our partnership with the UConn School of Dental Medicine, helping train the next generation of pediatric dentists while increasing access to care for children.

A significant milestone was reached in Pathway for Success by bringing Johnson O'Connor Research Foundation's nationally recognized aptitude testing to Brooker, making this unique career exploration opportunity available to more teenagers.

“ Together, your commitment makes a lasting difference by helping every child build a strong foundation from lifelong success. ”

Support for grandparents and other relatives raising children continued in Relatives as Parents Program, which expanded family outings and introduced on-site babysitting during adult support meetings, making it easier for caregivers to participate, build relationships, and access valuable resources.

None of this would be possible without the dedication of our staff, Board of Managers, Corporators, and community partners. Together, your commitment makes a lasting difference by helping every child build a strong foundation for lifelong success. For that, I am deeply grateful.

With gratitude,

Honoring a Decade of Leadership: William J. Marchand

For more than three decades, William "Bill" Marchand has been a dedicated champion of Brooker Memorial's mission to prepare children for lifelong success.

Bill first became involved with Brooker as a Corporator in 1994 before joining the Board of Managers in 2012. At the 2015 Annual Meeting, he was elected President, a role he served with distinction for 10 years. Under his steady, thoughtful leadership, Brooker navigated significant organizational growth while remaining firmly focused on meeting the evolving needs of children and families throughout our community.

Beyond the boardroom, Bill has been a familiar face at our offices, making a point of knowing staff members by name and offering warm greetings. His hands-on dedication also extends to our campus, where he and his family planted hundreds of flower bulbs along the property's fence and shared perennial plants from his own gardens, creating a welcoming environment.

At last year's Annual Meeting, Bill stepped down as President following a thoughtful leadership transition, ensuring incoming President Donna Mattiello was well prepared for her new role. While he has concluded his tenure as President, Bill remains an active and invaluable member of the Board of Managers and Finance Committee, where his experience and wisdom continue to strengthen the organization.

On behalf of our Board, staff, and many children and families whose lives have been touched by Brooker Memorial, we extend our deepest gratitude to Bill for his exceptional leadership and enduring dedication to our mission.

Early Learning & Child Care Center

At Brooker Memorial's Early Learning and Child Care Center, children from six weeks old through third grade find a safe, nurturing place to play, grow, and learn. Our creative, play-based curriculum is designed to make learning an adventure. Children enjoy fantastic enrichment activities, including regular yoga sessions to stay centered, lively music classes, and hands-on fun planting, harvesting and eating from our organic vegetable garden. We focus on building social skills, confidence, and school readiness.

Our students stepped beyond the classroom walls this year, visiting Barden Farm to pet animals and select a pumpkin from a field, sharing intergenerational joy with senior friends at Keystone Place at Newbury Brook, and discovering new experiences visiting local city businesses, such as Doyle's Medical Supply.

One family's child care experience

Katherine "Kat" Kennedy began her enrollment at Brooker's Child Care Center as an infant and this fall she's leaving to begin kindergarten. Her mother believes the care and education she received has had a profound impact on her.

"Her ability and her level to communicate (about) her needs and wants was heightened," explained her mother, Erin Kennedy, during a recent interview. "She'll say very advanced emotional communication statements, that you know she's heard from her teachers, such as 'I don't like it when you do this. It makes me feel this way.'"

Erin heard from the teachers early on that Kat's empathy was at a high level, even when she was in the baby room.

"She was about to move up to toddlers. Her teacher, Miss Brandi, said that if any of the other kids cry, she goes over to them and pats them on the back and consoles them," Erin said. "She never would've had that experience, and I'm sure it was something that she watched them do. I think it really increased her empathy to be with children who are younger."

Erin compliments both the teachers and the administration of Brooker Memorial for the support provided to families. Although she has an older daughter, she would regularly seek guidance from the teachers as Kat was going through the program. When Kat started, she was a foster child and Erin later adopted her.

"It had been 10 years since I had an infant," Erin said. The teachers would regularly assure her saying "this is age appropriate" or "here's how we handle it in the classroom" or "here's what you could do."

"They're better than any resource book. They're doing it day in and day out, and they're really, really good at it."

She also has praise for Director Charlene Lee and her many years of experience. "They're able to walk families through applications and different funding. They're able to interface with DCF very easily because they're very professional."

Special Visitors to Child Care

Five local probation and corrections officers visited in July to read books to the children and let them try on parts of their gear. It was part of the National Probation, Parole, and Pretrial Supervision Week and offered an opportunity for the children to see officers in a positive way.

Child Care students were treated to a visit in October from the Read to Grow Bookmobile. Each child was able to go inside the truck and they were so excited to select their own brand-new free book to take home.

Oliver Wolcott Technical High School returned for its annual visit, bringing Santa and elves and even a "reindeer" in December. The high school students spent time in the classrooms reading and playing with the children.

Lesa Vanotti, President and CEO of Torrington Savings Bank, visited in April to read Ella the Banker to our preschoolers. The book introduces young children to the world of banking while encouraging them to dream big and understand that they can grow up to be anything they aspire to be. Each classroom also received donated copies to continue the learning.

Debbie Labbe of Country Quilt Llama Farm in Cornwall brought her llama, Harley, to visit in April, offering each child the opportunity to pet the llama's neck. Debbie also read the story, "Is Your Mama a Llama?" to the children.

Dental

Brooker Memorial’s dental program provides comprehensive care, creating a true dental home for children where preventative services, treatment and oral health education are fully integrated.

We believe every child deserves a healthy smile, regardless of their family’s financial situation. We are proud to be the largest provider of pediatric dental care for HUSKY-insured families in Litchfield County, while offering sliding-scale fees and a dedicated scholarship fund to keep care accessible for everyone.

In January 2026, Brooker Memorial officially opened a new dental clinic at the EdAdvance Head Start facility on Grove Street. By early summer, this successful collaboration had already provided dozens of preschool students with routine cleanings and exams, effectively removing barriers to early health care. This year also saw the valuable expansion of our partnership with the UConn School of Dental Medicine, which increased to hosting two dental residents each week. Under expert clinical guidance, these residents helped Brooker deliver comprehensive treatments and education.

In June, we expanded access to specialized dental care through a partnership with the Dental Sedation Center of Connecticut in Fairfield. Our Dental Director, Dr. Suher Baker, now provides treatment for Brooker patients at the center, allowing children with complex dental needs or special circumstances to receive care under general anesthesia. To help reduce barriers to treatment, Brooker also provides transportation for families when needed.

Our staff creates a welcoming atmosphere to make dental visits fun to shape children’s healthy habits and nurture a happier, healthier community—one smile at a time.

Breaking Down Barriers to care

For many families in Northwest CT, transportation is one of the biggest barriers to accessing dental care. Without a reliable vehicle, traveling throughout Litchfield County can be difficult, and public transportation options are limited.

When Sinceer Alicea moved from Hartford to Winsted two years ago to live with his grandmother and legal guardian, Maria Arroyo, transportation became a major obstacle. Despite repeated attempts to schedule dental care, they were forced to cancel appointments because they had no way to get there.

In June, Maria called Brooker Memorial after learning about the Pediatric Dental Center from a neighbor. Sinceer was experiencing significant pain in his molars, and our team was able to schedule him for an appointment right away.

"This was the first time he went to the dentist since living in Winsted," Maria explained.

Through funding provided by the American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry's Access to Care Grant, Brooker Memorial arranged transportation through Uber Health, allowing Maria and Sinceer to travel to and from the appointment without worry. The family especially appreciated that the driver was bilingual, making the experience even more comfortable.

The visit made a lasting impression.

"I felt very comfortable, and we were well supported by Brooker," Maria said. "He is usually really scared of dentists. Everyone here made him feel very comfortable."

School-Based Dental Program

This was an exciting year for Brooker's School-Based Dental Program. We opened a dental clinic at Head Start on Grove Street in Torrington to serve preschool students and began treating students in April. This brings our total schools to 12 in Northwest Connecticut – all the schools in Region One, Botelle School in Norfolk, all three elementary schools in Torrington and this fall we are adding the Torrington Intermediate School.

Dental hygienist Debra Ravlin leads the school-based dental program, providing oral health education to help students develop proper oral health habits that they can carry into adulthood. Without this program, some children would not receive essential dental care, putting them at risk for lifelong issues with cavities and oral diseases.

"By treating kids directly in school, we bypass barriers to care and combat dental decay for the region's most vulnerable youth," she said. Her work provides dental cleanings, cavity risk assessments, sealants and fluoride treatments for children age 3 to 13 in the various schools.

Brooker in the Community

Brooker Memorial is committed to connecting with families throughout Northwest Connecticut. Our staff actively participate in local boards, committees, and community events, extending Brooker's reach beyond our programs.

TAFa Autism Walk

Dental Assistants Erica and Sheri shared informaton about Brooker's services at the Torrington Area Families for Autism (TAFa) Walk Our Way Autism Walk in June.

Business of Saving Lives – YMCA

Dental Assistant Annie and Summer Intern Andrea connected with families and shared resources at the Northwest Connecticut Chamber of Commerce's Business of Saving Lives event in May.

Hartford HealthCare Medical Mission

Dr. Salas and two UConn pediatric dental residents provided dental screenings to 100 residents at Hartford HealthCare's Medical Mission in Torrington.

Community Leadership

Christina Emery was elected President of the Rotary Club of the Torrington & Winsted Areas and was recognized as an Influential Woman by Scouting America CT Rivers. Lynn Mellis Worthington serves with Women United, an affinity group of the United Way of NW CT, and Kaitlyn Graboski is Treasurer of the Harwinton West Side Volunteer Fire Department.

Pathway to Success

Brooker's Pathway to Success program helps high school students discover their natural abilities and explore career paths that align with their unique strengths. In partnership with the Johnson O'Connor Research Foundation, the program expanded this year by hosting aptitude testing 34 students at Brooker's Torrington facility.

In May, Brooker hosted a Career Expo at the Torrington Library for 24 students who completed aptitude testing. Seventeen local professionals attended to share career insights, answer questions, and their experiences. These connections help students make informed future decisions and build relationships with mentors in their fields of interest.

Finding the Right Fit

When Melanie Allen pondered her future, she wasn't sure what direction she wanted to go with her career. Taking the aptitude test offered by Brooker Memorial in 2026 helped open up possibilities to her that she hadn't considered.

"The test itself was the longest test I have ever taken," Melanie said. When she got the results back, she found the skills and natural abilities it pointed to as very accurate. She is a "natural three-dimensional thinker, with a flair for analysis and creative problem solving."

A student at Northwestern Regional High School, she was considering following in her mother's footsteps to be a physical or occupational therapist. Her mom, Sue Allen, works at Cheshire Fitness Zone on the second floor of Brooker's facility. While her scores did point to an aptitude for this type of work, Melanie was also directed toward the trades because of her strong "structural visualization" score. This is a talent for seeing and manipulating 3-D objects in one's mind.

She met with Ray Tanguay from Oliver Wolcott Technical High School and Mason Lord of Hudson Valley Preservation and Trades Up during the Pathway Career Expo. When she shared her love of math and her aptitudes, they pointed her toward welding.

"The two of them helped me figure out something that would put together all my interests - I want to be able to be creative, bring in math, and work with my hands," Melanie said. "They both agreed that welding sounded very fitting for those three things in particular."

Mr. Tanguay told her about a welding program offered by Bristol Technical Educational Center, which offers education and certification programs to both high school students and adults.

Melanie is glad that she participated in Pathway to Success because it really opened her eyes to other career possibilities. Sue is really pleased that her daughter took the opportunity. She hopes other students and families will join the program in the future, "It really allows the student to have their own insight into what they may be good at and gives them a starting point."

The Relatives as Parents Program

The Relatives as Parents Program (RAPP) provides support, education, and resources for grandparents and other relatives who are raising children. This year, the program expanded to offer more opportunities for families to connect outside of monthly support meetings.

Families enjoyed outings designed to strengthen relationships and create lasting memories, including go-kart racing at R&B Sports in Winsted, a day at March Farm featuring a hayride, animal encounters, and a corn maze, and a candy-making experience at Nutmeg Fudge in Torrington.

Monthly meetings featured educational presentations from community partners, including McCall Behavioral Health Network, the Western CT Area Agency on Aging, 211 Child Care/United Way, the CT Department of Children and Families (DCF), the CT Alliance of Foster and Adoptive Families, and Charlotte Hungerford Hospital.

Finding support and fun through RAPP

Doreen Hunt found Brooker's Relatives as Parents Program three years ago and the support group is something she treasures.

Seven years ago, she started the process of becoming the guardian to her grandchildren. Her daughter and her ex-husband were addicted to heroin and they lost custody of their children. The state Department of Children and Families (DCF) stepped in to put them in foster care.

"We bought a house here in Torrington to get the kids," Doreen said. "For four years, we fought to get them."

She was successful and now has permanent guardianship for the three children. Caregiving for children for the second time in her life has been hard and filled with challenges. She was referred to the RAPP program by someone in social services, she said.

"Nobody understood what it's like to be my age, raising children again, and I needed people who understood," Doreen said.

"We get to support each other. We laugh together. We cry together. You can be angry. It's a safe place," she said. "They understand the stress, especially when you have kids with special needs, and they've helped me with resources. We've helped each other."

There are monthly meetings for the adults, and speakers are arranged to speak with the RAPP group members on topics designed to help them. Doreen found one on special education to be very informative as one of her grandchildren was diagnosed this year and she has worked to get him services. Another provided info from a state agency.

"When DCF came, talking to us about raising our grandchildren (and) having guardianship, it helped me feel relieved about certain things," Doreen said. "It made me feel more at ease, knowing that there's resources to help us as we raise these children."

Ruth Chadwick Care Closet

Helping the less fortunate has been a long-standing tradition at Brooker Memorial. The Ruth Chadwick Care Closet was established in memory of Ruth Chadwick, a former board member, corporator, and volunteer. Through the care closet, we are able to help families with monetary or material support. The funds from the care closet are used for one-time needs. In addition, funding for the Angel Tree gifts at Christmas time also comes from the closet.

During the fiscal year, six families were helped through the care closet as they experienced a variety of financial hardships. Angel Tree gifts were provided to 10 children, helping five families have a happy holiday season. We are indebted to our longstanding volunteers, Gail Marchand, Katherine Marchand-Beyer and Mary Teddick for the help shopping and organizing the holiday gifts.

We thank The Marion Wm, & Alice Edwards Fund of the Northwest Connecticut Community Foundation for its financial support through the Critical Needs Grant that provided funding for the care closet this year. Individual donors also contributed to the care closet funds.

Danielle Robison

We are grateful for their dedication and service to Brooker Memorial. Their commitment continues to make a meaningful difference in the lives of the children and families we serve.

After 15 years of nurturing young learners at Brooker Memorial, Tammy Tronina retired in June, concluding an extraordinary 44-year career in early childhood education. Throughout her career, she inspired a love of learning through her patience, creativity, and genuine care for every child. Her dedication helped generations of students build the confidence and skills they needed for future success, while creating lasting memories for countless families.

Brooker said farewell to Jennifer Dupill, who retired after 17 years as a dental assistant for Brooker. The staff gave her a retirement party July 9 to show their gratitude for all her years of dedication to children's oral health.
